

ENGAGEMENT GUIDELINES

We appreciate well planned events,
excellent communication, great artistic output
& a high level of customer service. As with all projects, we work with 3 main variables:

1. TIME

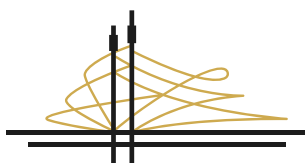

To be able to work together effectively, we need a heads up on time. While we occasionally make exceptions in exceptional circumstances, we don't like making a habit of booking performances on short notice.

2. RESOURCES

We remain accountable to our many stakeholders for the way we employ our resources, and are always grateful for to those who approach our productions with the same consideration. Please let us know, from the outset, what your budget for the performance is. Depending on how your event aligns to ours, we may make certain financial concessions on the regular costs of our work, but please note that this is at our discretion, and is dependent on available resources.

3. QUALITY

While we are committed to providing performance platforms for emerging talent, we remain a professional organization - this means that our musicians have trained for many years to achieve a certain level of success, and we are respectful of their contribution to the high quality of our output.
